Chapter 1 by Karapian

This story starts off in a little shack in the middle of a desolate desert. This story has a character, who's a little whacko, and doesn't seem so sensible, nonetheless, that's what the story's about.

Our story begins with a character, who's a small boy with small drawings on his body, some funny, some weird, and some plain mysterious. He has sharp-ish looking hair, with a purple left eye, and a green right eye. His skin is white, despite being in the desert, and is exceptionally fit for his age.

He loves the sand, in fact he loves it so much that he could eat it! The boy does not know he is a boy, and has no origins. He's very content, and simply lives in a simple life.

One day, the boy is frolicking in the desert, not one single care as to his surroundings, nor to his whereabouts. He's so "in the moment" that he doesn't see a large greenish blue ball in the middle of the ground, and as expected, he trips very dramatically on said item.

He picks himself up, and looks around as to why he had fallen, and sees the ball-ish object. He picks it up and tosses it around for a bit. He has no idea what the thing is, or what could it be. He gets quite excited, and returns to the little shack in the middle of the desert.

Oh, and by the way, his real name's Hami, did I forget to mention that?
